

Abentüerung

1927 — UNIVERSAL PICTURES

themselves in the O.P.O. and drilled on their class in the same manner as the other boys.

When they got to the school, they were met by the headmaster and the boys were taken to their classrooms. The headmaster then gave them a short talk on the importance of their studies and the duties of a gentleman. He then dismissed them to their classes.

The boys were very happy to be at school. They had heard so much about the school and the headmaster. They were all very well and had been very busy at home. They were all very glad to see each other and to be back at school.

The headmaster was very kind to them. He had been very busy at home and had not had time to see them. He was very glad to see them and to hear that they were all well. He then gave them a short talk on the importance of their studies and the duties of a gentleman.

The boys were all very glad to see each other and to be back at school. They were all very well and had been very busy at home. They were all very glad to see each other and to be back at school.

had the time of their lives. They were motored about the country in a motor car, and they were very comfortable and happy all the time. They were very much interested in the things they saw, and they were very much interested in the things they saw. They were very much interested in the things they saw, and they were very much interested in the things they saw. They were very much interested in the things they saw, and they were very much interested in the things they saw.

They were very much interested in the things they saw, and they were very much interested in the things they saw. They were very much interested in the things they saw, and they were very much interested in the things they saw. They were very much interested in the things they saw, and they were very much interested in the things they saw.

They were very much interested in the things they saw, and they were very much interested in the things they saw. They were very much interested in the things they saw, and they were very much interested in the things they saw. They were very much interested in the things they saw, and they were very much interested in the things they saw.

They were very much interested in the things they saw, and they were very much interested in the things they saw. They were very much interested in the things they saw, and they were very much interested in the things they saw. They were very much interested in the things they saw, and they were very much interested in the things they saw.

